INTRODUCTION AND INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE 1

FACTUAL AND LEGAL BACKGROUND 4

 A. Immigrants’ Access to Public Benefits 4

 B. The Final Public Charge Rule 4

 C. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act 6

ARGUMENT 7

I. PLAINTIFFS ARE LIKELY TO SUCCEED ON THE MERITS
BECAUSE THE FINAL RULE VIOLATES SECTION 504 OF THE REHABILITATION ACT. 7

 A. Under the Final Rules’ “Health” Criterion, Individuals with Disabilities Are Automatically Penalized. 7

 B. The Final Rule Also Penalizes Individuals with Disabilities for Using Medicaid—the Only Provider of Necessary Services that Promote Self-Sufficiency. 8

 C. The Final Rule Triple-Counts the Same Factual Circumstances against an Individual with Disabilities. 11

II. THE FINAL RULE WILL CAUSE IRREPARABLE HARM TO BOTH CITIZENS AND NON-CITIZENS WITH DISABILITIES. 11

2 Amici curiae are nineteen nonprofit organizations that represent, advocate for, and support 3 the disability community. Collectively, amici operate in all fifty States and six Territories and 4 represent tens of thousands of people with disabilities and their family members across the country.
5 Among other services, the amici provide public education, litigate, and conduct research for people
6 with disabilities and their families. All amici are dedicated to the liberty, equality, and integration 7 of individuals with disabilities. Individual statements of interest from each amici organization 8 appear in the appendix to this brief.

9 The United States is a nation shaped by immigration and founded on ideals of equality—10 however imperfectly realized. Contrary to these values, for more than a century, immigrants with 11 disabilities were legally excluded from this country based on the flawed notion that individuals 12 with disabilities were “undesirables.” But over time, public attitudes changed as reflected in 13 various congressional acts, including the enactment of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the 14 revision of immigration laws to eliminate disability-specific exclusions. The Department of 15 Homeland Security’s Final Rule on Public Charge Ground of Inadmissibility (the “Final Rule”), 16 whether unintentionally or deliberately,¹ seeks to reinstate those exclusionary provisions.

17 In the early twentieth century, the “principal object” of immigration law was “the exclusion 18 from this country of the morally, mentally and physically deficient[.]”² Citing the “public charge” 19 requirement as authority, Ellis Island immigration inspectors would pick people out of line who

20 21 ¹ The current administration has openly displayed hostility towards immigrants with disabilities.
22 President Donald J. Trump tweeted that Central American asylum seekers waiting in Tijuana, 23 Mexico will bring “large scale crime and disease” to the United States. Chantal Da Silva, Donald 25 2018), <https://www.newsweek.com/donald-trump-says-migrants-bring-large-scale-crime-and-disease-america-1253268> (emphasis added). President Trump also falsely said that Haitians “all 26 have AIDS.” Michael D. Shear & Julie Hirschfeld Davis, Stoking Fears, Trump Defied 27 Bureaucracy to Advance Immigration Agenda, N.Y. TIMES (Dec. 23, 2017), 28 <https://www.nytimes.com/2017/12/23/us/politics/trump-immigration.html>. The Trump Administration has indicated a desire to stop granting “deferred action” to people undergoing medical treatment, often with disastrous consequences. See Miriam Jordan, Faced With Criticism,

Trump Administration Reverse Abrupt End to Humanitarian Relief, N.Y. TIMES (Sept. 2, 2019), <https://www.nytimes.com/2019/09/02/us/trump-immigration-deferred-action.html>.

² Douglas C. Baynton, Defectives in the Land: Disability and American Immigration Policy, 1882-1924, 24 J. AM. ETHNIC HIST. 31, 34 (2005).

1 appeared to be “disabled” or “diseased,” and deny them entry into the United States.³ While this 2 treatment was often rationalized at the time as a matter of simple economics, contemporaneous 3 documents reveal that these policies were rooted in eugenic considerations and the flawed notion 4 that people with disabilities are somehow “deficient.”⁴

5 By the 1960s, spurred by the civil rights movement, the nation’s perception of individuals 6 with disabilities had begun to change. And Congress responded. In 1973, on a bipartisan basis, 7 Congress passed the Rehabilitation Act, which prohibits disability discrimination by the Federal 8 government. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act (“Section 504”) was modeled, in part, after 9 Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and declared: “No otherwise qualified handicapped 10 individual in the United States . . . shall, solely by reason of his handicap, be excluded from the 11 participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or 12 activity receiving Federal financial assistance.” Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Pub. L. No. 93-112, 13 § 504, 87 Stat. 355, 394 (1973)⁵; see also Civil Rights Act of 1964, Pub. L. No. 88-352, tit. VI, 78
 14 Stat. 241, 252-53 (1964). This language made clear that access for people with disabilities is a 15 matter of equal opportunity, not a welfare benefit or act of charity.⁶

16 In the half-century since, Congress has repeatedly reaffirmed this commitment to ensuring 17 equal opportunity for individuals with disabilities. In 1990, Congress enacted the Americans with 18 Disabilities Act (“ADA”), which declares that “the Nation’s proper goals regarding individuals 19 with disabilities are to assure equality of opportunity, full participation, independent living, and

20 ³ See, e.g., Mark C Weber, Opening the Golden Door: Disability and the Law of Immigration, 81, 21 J. GENDER, RACE & JUST. 153, 156 (2004) (“Inspectors looked for any of a long list of diseases 22 and abnormalities, including arthritis, asthma, deafness, the loss of an eye or a limb, deformities, poor vision, underdevelopment, and dementia.”).

23 ⁴ See Baynton, supra, at 34-35 (“In a letter to the Comm’r General, the Ellis Island Commissioner
 24 wrote that the Bureau had ‘no more important work to perform than to pick out all the mentally 25 defective immigrants, for these are not only likely to join the criminal classes and become public charges, but by leaving feebleminded descendants they start vicious strains which leads to misery and loss in the future generation and influence unfavorably the character and lives of hundreds of persons.’”).

26 ⁵ The Rehabilitation Act Amendments of 1992 updated the term “handicap” to individual with a “disability.” See PL 102–569 (HR 5482), 106 Stat 4344 (Oct. 29, 1992).

27 ⁶ See generally Nat’l Council on Disability, Equal of Opportunity: The Making of the Americans
 28 with Disabilities Act (July 26, 1997), <https://files.eric.ed.gov/fulltext/ED512697.pdf>.

1 economic self-sufficiency for such individuals.” 42 U.S.C. § 12101 (a)(7). That same year, 2 Congress amended the Immigration Code to end the discriminatory exclusion of people with 3 certain disabilities. See Immigration Act of 1990, Pub. L. No. 101-649 § 603(a)(15), 104 Stat.
 4 4978, 5083-84 (1990) (the “Immigration Act”) (deleting language excluding, inter alia, “[a]liens
 5 who are mentally retarded” or who are “afflicted with a mental defect”). These changes 6 marked an end to explicitly discriminatory prohibitions on individuals with disabilities in the 7 Immigration Code, exclusions that for more than one hundred years were listed alongside the 8 statutory public charge prohibition.⁷ Despite this clear congressional intent, the Final Rule 9 unlawfully reverts to the categorical exclusions against people with disabilities that prevailed over 10 a century ago.⁸

11 The Final Rule discriminates against disabled immigrants and their families with 12 devastating effects. The confusion surrounding the Final Rule poses a serious threat of harm to 13 the disability community, both citizens and noncitizens alike. The Department of Homeland 14 Security (“DHS”) acknowledges these discriminatory results and makes no attempt to defend them 15 as necessary policy or consistent with its non-discrimination obligations under Section 504.
 16 Rather, DHS contends that federal law actually requires it to exclude immigrants with disabilities 17 in discriminatory fashion. As explained below, this is both legally and factually incorrect. The 18 ⁷ Congress’s support for the integration of people with disabilities has not wavered. Most recently, 19 in 2008, Congress removed HIV and AIDS from the list of infectious diseases that would prevent 20 an individual from immigrating to or visiting the United States. See Tom Lantos and Henry J.

 Hyde U.S Global Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Reauthorization Act of 2008, Pub. L. No. 110-293, 122 Stat. 2918 (2008); 42 C.F.R. § 34.2(b) (2008).

21 ⁸ DHS has made it clear that this is exactly what it seeks to do. In its publication of the Final Rule, 22 DHS included the following footnote as support for its assertion that it can rely on an immigrant’s 23 disability in making the public charge determination: “Ex parte Mitchell, 256 F. 229 (N.D.N.Y.
 1919) (referencing disease and disability as relevant to the public charge determination); Ex parte 24 Sakaguchi, 277 F. 913, 916 (9th Cir. 1922) (taking into consideration that the alien was an able-25 bodied woman, among other factors, and finding that there wasn’t evidence that she was likely to 26 become a public charge); Barlin v. Rodgers, 191 F. 970, 974-977 (3d Cir. 1911) (sustaining the 27 exclusion of three impoverished immigrants, the first because he had a ‘rudimentary’ right hand 28 affecting his ability to earn a living, the second because of poor appearance and ‘stammering’ such that made the alien scarcely able to make himself understood, and the third because he was very small for his age); United States ex rel. Canfora v. Williams, 186 F. 354 (S.D.N.Y. 1911) (ruling that an amputated leg was sufficient to justify the exclusion of a sixty year old man even though the man had adult children who were able and willing to support him.)” Inadmissibility on Public

1 amici curiae respectfully urge the court to grant the Plaintiffs’ motion for preliminary injunction.

2 FACTUAL AND LEGAL BACKGROUND

3 A. Immigrants’ Access to Public Benefits

4 In 1996, Congress passed the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity 5 Reconciliation Act of 1996 (“PRWORA”) to comprehensively reform the U.S. welfare system.
6 PRWORA generally limited immigrants’ access to public benefits. Pub. L. No. 104-193, 110 Stat.
7 2105 (1996). However, recognizing the importance of certain programs, Congress specified that 8 all immigrants regardless of legal status would be eligible for emergency Medicaid, crisis 9 counseling, and mental health and substance use disorder treatment. As detailed below, these 10 benefits are of particular importance to immigrants with disabilities.

11 PRWORA’s changes to benefits eligibility generated considerable public confusion about 12 the extent of the “public charge” rule, which resulted in a sharp decline in the usage of non-cash 13 public benefits. The Immigration and Naturalization Service (“INS”) (now, DHS) responded by 14 issuing Field Guidance clarifying the meaning of a “public charge” “in order to reduce the negative 15 public health consequences generated by the existing confusion and to provide aliens with better 16 guidance as to the types of public benefits that will and will not be considered in public charge 17 determinations.” Field Guidance on Deportability and Inadmissibility on Public Charge Grounds, 18 64 Fed. Reg. 28,689 (May 26, 1999) (“1999 Field Guidance”). In this Field Guidance, INS 19 interpreted “public charge” to mean an applicant who is “primarily dependent on the government 20 for subsistence, as demonstrated by either (i) the receipt of public cash assistance for income 21 maintenance or (ii) institutionalization for long-term care at government expense.” Id. (emphasis 22 added). Immigrants who received non-cash benefits were not considered a public charge under 23 this rule. Inadmissibility on Public Charge Grounds, 83 Fed. Reg. 51,114, 51,163-64 (Oct. 10, 24 2018).

25 B. The Final Public Charge Rule

26 On August 14, 2019, DHS published the Final Rule, which modifies the prevailing test⁹ by

27 _____
28 ⁹ The applicable statute states that in making a public charge determination “the consular officer or the Attorney General shall at a minimum consider the alien’s—(I) age; (II) health; (III) family

1 assigning mandatory ratings (heavily weighted positive, positive, negative, or heavily weighted 2 negative) to the statutory factors to be considered: the applicant’s “age,” “health,” “family status,” 3 “assets, resources, and financial status,” and “education and skills.” 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,369. The 4 Final Rule states that, when considering an individual’s health, DHS will treat as a negative factor 5 having “a medical condition that is likely to require extensive medical treatment or 6 institutionalization or that will interfere with the alien’s ability to provide and care for himself or 7 herself, to attend school, or to work upon admission or adjustment of status.” 8 C.F.R. § 8 212.22(b)(2). Accordingly, all or almost all immigrants with disabilities would be assigned a 9 negative health factor. Cf. 29 U.S.C. § 705(9)(B) (defining “disability,” for purposes of Section 10 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, as having “the meaning given” the term in the ADA’s definition of 11 disability); 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)(A) (defining a disability, under the ADA, as “a physical or mental 12 impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities of such individual”).

13 That same medical condition is considered a heavily weighted negative factor if the 14 applicant lacks private insurance. 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(c)(1)(iii). The receipt or authorization to 15 receive benefits, including Medicaid, for 12 months within 36 months of filing an application (for 16 a visa, admission, adjustment of status, extension of stay, or change of status) is also deemed a 17 heavily weighted negative factor, 8 C.F.R. §§ 212.22(c)(1)(ii).

18 The lack of a “medical condition” described above is one of a few factors that will be given 19 a positive value under the Final Rule. 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(b)(2). The only heavily weighted positive 20 factors are (1) income, assets, resources, and support that are at least 250% of the Federal Poverty 21 Level and (2) enrollment in a private insurance plan, but only if the applicant does not use tax 22 credits to offset health care premium costs under the Affordable Care Act. 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(c)(2).

23 Under the Final Rule, DHS officials may find in favor of admissibility only if the positive 24 factors outweigh the negative factors. 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,397-98. If an immigrant is assigned a 25 heavily weighted negative factor, she will be considered a public charge unless she has two or 26 more countervailing positive factors or one heavily weighted positive factor. Id.

27
 28 _____
 status; (IV) assets, resources, and financial status; and (V) education and skills.” 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(4)(B).

1 C. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act

2 Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act prohibits federal executive agencies from 3 discriminating against individuals with disabilities in any program or activity.¹⁰ Section 504 4 reaches government action that, either through purpose or effect, discriminates against individuals 5 with disabilities. See 28 C.F.R. § 41.51(b)(3) (“A recipient [of federal funds] may not, directly or 6 through contractual or other arrangements, utilize criteria or methods of administration: (i) That 7 have the effect of subjecting qualified handicapped persons to discrimination on the basis of 8 handicap; (ii) That have the purpose or effect of defeating or substantially impairing 9 accomplishment of the objectives of the recipient’s program with respect to handicapped persons 10”) (emphasis added).

11 In Alexander v. Choate, the Supreme Court made clear that Congress intended Section 504 12 to forbid all forms of disability discrimination, including invidious animus and benign neglect.
 13 See 469 U.S. 287, 294–97 (1985) (“Discrimination against the handicapped was perceived by 14 Congress to be most often the product, not of invidious animus, but rather of thoughtlessness and 15 indifference—of benign neglect. . . . [M]uch of the conduct that Congress sought to alter in passing 16 the Rehabilitation Act would be difficult if not impossible to reach were the Act construed to 17 proscribe only conduct fueled by a discriminatory intent.”); Crowder v. Kitagawa, 81 F.3d 1480, 18 1484 (9th Cir. 1996) (“In Choate, the Court concluded that Congress intended to protect disabled 19 persons from discrimination arising out of both discriminatory animus and ‘thoughtlessness,’ 20 ‘indifference,’ or ‘benign neglect.’”).

21 Section 504 applies to all DHS activities and programs, including public charge 22 determinations, which means DHS cannot utilize discriminatory “criteria or methods” in making 23 public charge determinations. See 6 C.F.R. §§ 15.30(b), 15.49. The “criteria or methods” are 24 discriminatory if they “[s]ubject qualified individuals with a disability to discrimination on the

2 program or activity with respect to individuals with a disability.” 6 C.F.R. § 15.30(b)(4).¹¹

3 ARGUMENT

4 I. PLAINTIFFS ARE LIKELY TO SUCCEED ON THE MERITS BECAUSE THE 5 FINAL RULE VIOLATES SECTION 504 OF THE REHABILITATION ACT.

6 DHS admits that the Final Rule will have an “outsized” impact on people with disabilities, 7 but claims that “it is not the intent, nor is it the effect of this rule to find a person a public charge 8 solely based on his or her disability.” 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,368. DHS is wrong: the Final Rule’s 9 “health” and “resources” “criteria,” in combination, make anyone with a significant disability 10 virtually certain to be excluded in a public charge determination. Therefore, the “purpose or 11 effect” of the Final Rule is to selectively exclude immigrants with disabilities from admission into 12 the United States or adjustment of status in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act.

13 A. Under the Final Rules’ “Health” Criterion, Individuals with Disabilities Are 14 Automatically Penalized.

15 Under the Final Rule, DHS automatically assigns a negative weight to any applicant having 16 “a medical condition that is likely to require extensive medical treatment or institutionalization or 17 that will interfere with the alien’s ability to provide and care for himself or herself, to attend
18 school, or to work upon admission or adjustment of status.” 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(b)(2) (emphasis 19 added). In effect, this criterion converts the “health” inquiry into a “disability” inquiry. Although 20 “disability” is not fully synonymous with “medical condition,” people with disabilities experience 21 functional limitations that often have underlying medical diagnoses. When these medical 22 diagnoses are inadequately treated or accommodated, they can interfere with an individual’s ability 23 to provide self-care, attend school, or work. Thus under this broadly defined criterion, almost 24

25 ¹¹ The government violates Section 504 when it “excludes [individuals] from a program based on 26 an eligibility criterion that impermissibly screens out [individuals] with disabilities” C.D. v. New 27 York City Dep’t of Educ., No. 05 Civ. 7945 (SHS), 2009 WL 400382, at *13 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 11, 28 2009); see also Franco-Gonzalez v. Holder, No. CV 10-02211 DMG (DTBx), 2013 WL 3674492, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 23, 2013) (finding that the government violates Section 504, even in cases of non-intentional discrimination, if individuals with disabilities “are unable to meaningfully access the benefit offered . . . because of their disability.”) (citing Alexander, 469 U.S. at 299).

1 every person with a “disability” will be assigned an automatic negative weight under the Final 2 Rule. Cf. 29 U.S.C. § 705(9)(B) (defining “disability” under Section 504 to mean “a physical or 3 mental impairment that substantially limits one or more life activities of the individual”). There 4 is absolutely nothing in the legislative history that suggests that this was Congress’s intent when 5 it designated “health” as one of the factor to be considered in a public charge determination. In 6 fact, it would have been contrary to congressional action at the time given that Congress had just 7 passed the ADA.

8 Not only will this criterion assign a negative weight to almost every person with a 9 disability; it will count as a heavily weighted negative factor for all of these people with disabilities 10 who lack private insurance. As explained below, see infra at § I.B., many people with disabilities 11 cannot receive the services they require from private insurance and thus would be subject to this 12 heavily weighted negative factor. Further, under the Final Rule the lack of a medical condition is 13 one of the few positive factors recognized by DHS. See 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(b)(2). Thus, all other 14 factors being equal, individuals with a disabilities will be severely disadvantaged by automatically 15 being assigned one or more negative factors, and automatically be disqualified from one of the few 16 positive factors DHS will consider in making a public charge determination. This sharply different 17 treatment of individuals who are similarly situated “but for their disability” amounts to 18 discrimination under Section 504. See Lovell v. Chandler, 303 F.3d 1039, 1053 (9th Cir. 2002)
19 (finding a Section 504 violation where, “but for their disability,” the plaintiffs would have received 20 Medicaid under the state’s QUEST program).

21 B. The Final Rule Also Penalizes Individuals with Disabilities for Using 22 Medicaid—the Only Provider of Necessary Services that Promote Self- 23 Sufficiency.

24 An applicant’s use of, or even approval for, Medicaid for more than 12 months in any 36 25 month period counts as a heavily weighted negative factor under the Final Rule. See 8 C.F.R.
26 §§ 212.22(c)(1)(ii), 212.21(b)(5). The benefits Medicaid provides are essential for millions of 27 people with disabilities, and a third of Medicaid’s adult recipients under the age of 65 are people 28

1 with disabilities.¹² Studies show that Medicaid is positively associated with employment and the 2 integration of individuals with disabilities,¹³ in part because Medicaid covers employment
 3 supports¹⁴ that enable people with disabilities to work.¹⁵ Congress has specified that Medicaid 4 services are designed to help individuals with disabilities “attain or retain [the] capability for 5 independence or self-care.” 42 U.S.C. § 1396-1.

6 One reason Medicaid services are essential to the disability community is the lack of 7 coverage by private insurance of services people with disabilities typically need.¹⁶ Medicaid is the 8 only insurer that generally covers many home- and community-based services, including personal 9 care services, specialized therapies and treatment, habilitative and rehabilitative services, and 10 durable medical equipment.¹⁷ Even highly educated professionals, business owners, and other

1 well-off individuals with disabilities who use private insurance also retain Medicaid coverage
 2 because no other insurer provides the services that they need.¹⁸ In recognition of the coverage
 3 limitations in private insurance for individuals with disabilities, Congress authorized the Medicaid
 4 Buy-In program. This program allows people to use Medicaid even when their incomes are above
 5 the standard limits for regular Medicaid eligibility by paying a premium—which thereby permits 6 them to remain in the workforce.¹⁹

7 Despite congressional recognition of the importance of Medicaid to people with 8 disabilities, and contrary to evidence showing that Medicaid services help individuals with 9 disabilities avoid becoming public charges, the Final Rule treats using Medicaid as a heavily 10 weighted negative factor. 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,298-99. An immigrant assigned a heavily weighted 11 negative factor will be considered a public charge unless she or he has two or more countervailing 12 positive factors or one heavily weighted positive factor. Id. But as explained above, immigrants 13 with disabilities are automatically precluded by definition from a positive health factor; thus, an 14 immigrant’s use of public benefits designed to increase self-sufficiency will almost invariably 15 result in a public charge finding.

1 C. The Final Rule Triple-Counts the Same Factual Circumstances against an 2 Individual with Disabilities.

3 As noted, under the Final Rule, an immigrant’s medical condition and his or her use of 4 Medicaid can both be deemed a heavily weighted negative factor. 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(c)(1). And 5 the lack of the same medical condition is a positive factor. See 8 C.F.R. § 212.22(b)(2). Also, as 6 discussed above, many individuals with disabilities rely on Medicaid in part because it provides 7 services not available through private insurance that allow these individuals to work. The Final 8 Rule combines these criteria to in effect triply punish individuals with disabilities: first for having 9 the medical condition that impedes their ability to work, second for using Medicaid’s services that 10 they need to work and otherwise be productive members of their communities, and third by 11 disqualifying them from a potential positive factor.

12 Consider an immigrant who uses Medicaid because she needs rehabilitative services. This 13 individual will have a medical condition that interferes with her ability to work, and, if she lacks 14 private insurance, it will count as a heavily weighted negative factor. Her use of (or approval for) 15 Medicaid services for more than 12 months in the past 36 months would then constitute another 16 heavily weighted negative factor. And regardless of how healthy she is otherwise, she cannot 17 qualify for the “health” positive factor. Therefore, the Final Rule would invariably deem this 18 individual a public charge by triple-counting her disability.

19 This example starkly demonstrates the falsity of DHS’s argument that “[u]nder the totality 20 of the circumstances framework, the disability itself would not be the sole basis for an 21 inadmissibility finding.” Section 504 is violated where an individual is denied a benefit on the 22 basis of his or her disability, even if other factors are considered. See Lovell, 303 F.3d at 1053 23 (finding a Section 504 violation where other factors in a “restrictive income and assets test,” 24 because “those disabled persons were denied QUEST coverage by the State solely because of their 25 disabilities”).

26 II. THE FINAL RULE WILL CAUSE IRREPARABLE HARM TO BOTH CITIZENS
27 AND NON-CITIZENS WITH DISABILITIES.

28 DHS concedes the Final Rule’s designation of Medicaid as a public benefit will have a

1 “potentially outsized impact . . . on individuals with disabilities,” 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,368, but fails
 2 to appreciate the magnitude of the harm. As explained in the preceding section, the Final Rule 3 will cause irreparable harm to immigrants with disabilities who will either be denied admission or 4 an adjustment of status.²⁰ Conversely, in order to avoid a public charge determination, immigrants 5 with disabilities will be forced to forego necessary medical services.²¹ For example, imagine an 6 immigrant who had been in the United States long enough to be eligible for a Medicaid buy-in 7 program that he uses to get personal care services (which are unavailable through private health 8 insurance), enabling him to work. He would have to drop out of the Medicaid Buy-In program 9 (and thereby lose the personal care services and possibly his employment as a result) in order to 10 minimize the risk being considered a public charge (which would prohibit him from becoming a 11 legal permanent resident).

12 Confusion surrounding the Final Rule will cause immigrants to forego public benefits to 13 which they are entitled and which would not result in a “negative” factor, out of fear that accessing 14 those benefits would adversely impact their immigration status. But the harm caused by the Final 15 Rule is not limited to non-citizen immigrants. Confusion surrounding the Final Rule is also likely 16 to cause immigrant parents to refuse government benefits for their citizen children even though 17 the usage of those benefits would not be counted against the parents. DHS admits that the 18 programs named in the Final Rule will experience a 2.5% disenrollment rate and that hundreds of 19

20 ²⁰ Mandatory exclusion from the United States can be a death sentence for some immigrants with 21 disabilities. For example, Maria Isabel Bueso, an immigrant diagnosed with a rare life-threatening 22 condition was denied extension of Deferred Action Status. Isabel has lived in the United States
 23 for 16 years as a legal resident. The United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) 24 has ordered her removal to Guatemala, where the lifesaving medical treatment she receives is not available. See e.g. Congressman DeSaulnier Announces Private Bill to Protect Maria Isabel Bueso from Deportation, CONGRESSMAN MARK DESAULNIER: CALIFORNIA’S 11TH CONG. DIST.

 did not participate in benefit programs to which they were entitled, for fear of jeopardizing their ability to secure legal permanent residence status.”).

1 thousands of people eligible for benefits will unenroll because other members of their households
2 are foreign-born noncitizens. 84 Fed. Reg. at 41,463, 66-69. Disability organizations have fielded 3 countless calls, emails, and letters from people who are confused and concerned as to whether they 4 should disenroll from benefits.²² A researcher quoted by the Los Angeles Times recently warned: 5 ““We’re already seeing chilling effects. . . . There are families that are stopping benefits for their 6 U.S. citizen children. There are green card holders and naturalized citizens that stopped benefits 7 even though they won’t be affected.””²³ And a recently published study in the Journal of the 8 American Medical Association Pediatrics found that between “0.8 and 1.9 million children with 9 medical needs could be disenrolled” from health and nutrition benefits as a result of the version of 10 the rule proposed by DHS in October, 2018.²⁴

11 CONCLUSION

12 The Final Rule seeks to turn back the clock to a shameful era of eugenic immigration 13 policies by establishing a set of criteria ensuring that immigrants with disabilities will be 14 considered “public charges.” This rule will irreparably harm the community of individuals with 15 disabilities both by denying disabled immigrants admission or adjustment of status and by 16 discouraging citizens and noncitizens from accessing the benefits that allow them to study, work, 17 and participate fully in society. The amici curiae therefore respectfully urge the Court to heed the 18 overwhelming opposition among the disability community to the Final Rule and grant Plaintiffs’ 19 request for relief.

Appendix: Statements of Amici Curiae Groups

The American Civil Liberties Union (“ACLU”) is a nationwide, nonprofit nonpartisan organization dedicated to the principles of liberty and equality embodied in the Constitution and our nation’s civil rights laws. With more than three million members, activists, and supporters, the ACLU fights tirelessly in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and Washington, D.C. for the principle that every individual’s rights must be protected equally under the law, regardless of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, national origin, or record of arrest or conviction. The ACLU’s Disability Rights Program envisions a society in which discrimination against people with disabilities no longer exists, and in which people understand that disability is a normal part of life. This means a country in which people with disabilities are valued, integrated members of the community, and where people with disabilities have jobs, homes, education, healthcare, and families.

The Center for Public Representation (“CPR”) is a national, nonprofit legal advocacy organization that has been assisting people with disabilities for more forty years. CPR uses legal strategies, systemic reform initiatives, and policy advocacy to enforce civil rights, expand opportunities for inclusion and full community participation, and empower people with disabilities to exercise choice in all aspects of their lives. CPR has litigated systemic cases on behalf of people with disabilities in more than twenty states and has authored amici briefs to the United States Supreme Court and many courts of appeals. CPR is both a national and statewide legal backup center that provides assistance and support to the federally-funded protection and advocacy agencies in each state and to attorneys who represent people with disabilities in Massachusetts. CPR has helped lead the effort to educate and engage the disability community about the “public charge” rule at issue in this case.

The American Association of People with Disabilities (“AAPD”) works to increase the political and economic power of people with disabilities. A national cross-disability organization, AAPD advocates for full recognition of the rights of over 61 million Americans with disabilities.

1 The Association of University Centers on Disabilities (“AUCD”) is a nonprofit
2 membership association of 130 university centers and programs in each of the fifty States and six 3 Territories. AUCD members conduct research, create innovative programs, prepare individuals to 4 serve and support people with disabilities and their families, and disseminate information about 5 best practices in disability programming.

6 The Autistic Self Advocacy Network (“ASAN”) is a national, private, nonprofit 7 organization, run by and for autistic individuals. ASAN provides public education and promotes 8 public policies that benefit autistic individuals and others with developmental or other disabilities.
9 ASAN’s advocacy activities include combating stigma, discrimination, and violence against 10 autistic people and others with disabilities; promoting access to health care and long-term supports 11 in integrated community settings; and educating the public about the access needs of autistic 12 people. ASAN takes a strong interest in cases that affect the rights of autistic individuals and others 13 with disabilities to participate fully in community life and enjoy the same rights as others without 14 disabilities.

15 The Civil Rights Education and Enforcement Center (“CREEC”) is a national nonprofit 16 membership organization whose mission is to defend human and civil rights secured by law.
17 CREEC’s members include both people with disabilities and people who want to immigrate or 18 have immigrated to this country. CREEC’s efforts to defend human and civil include ensuring 19 that such individuals do not encounter discrimination based on disability.

21 The Coelho Center for Disability Law, Policy and Innovation (“The Coelho Center”) was 22 founded in 2018 by the Honorable Tony Coelho, primary author of the Americans with 23 Disabilities Act. Housed at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, The Coelho Center collaborates 24 with the disability community to cultivate leadership and advocate innovative approaches to 25 advance the lives of people with disabilities. The Coelho Center brings together thought leaders, 26 advocates, and policy makers to craft agendas that center disabled voices.

27 Disability Rights Advocates (“DRA”) is a non-profit, public interest law firm that 28 specializes in high impact civil rights litigation and other advocacy on behalf of persons with

1 disabilities throughout the United States. DRA works to end discrimination in areas such as access 2 to public accommodations, public services, employment, transportation, education, and housing.
3 DRA’s clients, staff and board of directors include people with various types of disabilities. With 4 offices in New York City and Berkeley, California, DRA strives to protect the civil rights of people 5 with all types of disabilities nationwide.

6 Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund (“DREDF”) is a national cross-disability 7 law and policy center that protects and advances the civil and human rights of people with 8 disabilities through legal advocacy, training, education, and development of legislation and public 9 policy. We are committed to increasing accessible and equally effective healthcare for people with 10 disabilities and eliminating persistent health disparities that affect the length and quality of their 11 lives. DREDF’s work is based on the knowledge that people with disabilities of varying racial and 12 ethnic backgrounds, ages, genders, and sexual orientations are fully capable of achieving self-13 sufficiency and contributing to their communities with access to needed services and supports and 14 the reasonable accommodations and modifications enshrined in U.S. law.

15 Disability Rights California (formerly known as Protection and Advocacy, Inc.), is a non-16 profit agency established under federal law to protect, advocate for and advance the human, legal 17 and service rights of Californians with disabilities. Disability Rights California works in 18 partnership with people with disabilities, striving towards a society that values all people and 19 supports their rights to dignity, freedom, choice, and quality of life. Since 1978, Disability Rights 20 California has provided essential legal services to people with disabilities. In the last year, 21 Disability Rights California provided legal assistance on nearly 26,000 matters to individuals with 22 disabilities, including impact litigation and direct representation. Disability Rights California has 23 extensive policy and litigation experience securing the rights of people with disabilities to public 24 benefits.

25 The Judge David L. Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law is a national nonprofit 26 advocacy organization that provides legal assistance to individuals with mental disabilities. The 27 Center was founded in 1972 as the Mental Health Law Project. Through litigation, policy 28 advocacy, and public education, the Center advances the rights of individuals with mental

1 disabilities to participate equally in all aspects of society, including health care, housing, 2 employment, education, community living, parental and family rights, and other areas. The Center
3 worked with others to develop comments of the Consortium for Citizens with Disabilities 4 concerning the "public charge" rule at issue in this case, and has litigated cases, filed amicus briefs, 5 and engaged in other advocacy on a number of issues concerning the rights of immigrants with 6 disabilities.

7 Little Lobbyists is a family-led organization that seeks to protect and expand the rights of 8 children with complex medical needs and disabilities through advocacy, education, and outreach.
9 We advocate for our children to have access to the health care, education, and community inclusion 10 they need to survive and thrive.

11 Mental Health America ("MHA"), formerly the National Mental Health Association, is a 12 national membership organization composed of individuals with lived experience of mental 13 illnesses and their family members and advocates. The nation's oldest and leading community-14 based nonprofit mental health organization, MHA has more than 200 affiliates dedicated to 15 improving the mental health of all Americans, especially the 54 million people who have severe 16 mental disorders. Through advocacy, education, research, and service, MHA helps to ensure that 17 people with mental illnesses are accorded respect, dignity, and the opportunity to achieve their full 18 potential. MHA is against policies that discriminate against people with mental health conditions.

19 The National Association of Councils on Developmental Disabilities ("NACDD") is the 20 national nonprofit membership association for the Councils on Developmental Disabilities located 21 in every State and Territory. The Councils are authorized under federal law to engage in advocacy, 22 capacity-building, and systems-change activities that ensure that individuals with developmental 23 disabilities and their families have access to needed community services, individualized supports, 24 and other assistance that promotes self-determination, independence, productivity, and integration 25 and inclusion in community life.

26 The National Council on Independent Living ("NCIL") is the oldest cross-disability, 27 national grassroots organization run by and for people with disabilities. NCIL's membership is 28 comprised of centers for independent living, state independent living councils, people with 1 disabilities and other disability rights organizations. NCIL advances independent living and the 2 rights of people with disabilities. NCIL envisions a world in which people with disabilities are 3 valued equally and participate fully.

4 The National Disability Rights Network (“NDRN”) is the non-profit membership
5 organization for the federally mandated Protection and Advocacy (P&A) and Client Assistance 6 Program (CAP) agencies for individuals with disabilities. The P&A and CAP agencies were 7 established by the United States Congress to protect the rights of people with disabilities and their 8 families through legal support, advocacy, referral, and education. There are P&As and CAPs in 9 all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Territories (American Samoa, 10 Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, and the US Virgin Islands), and there is a P&A and CAP
11 affiliated with the Native American Consortium which includes the Hopi, Navajo and San Juan 12 Southern Piute Nations in the Four Corners region of the Southwest. Collectively, the P&A and 13 CAP agencies are the largest provider of legally based advocacy services to people with disabilities 14 in the United States.

15 The National Federation of the Blind (“NFB”) is the nation’s oldest and largest 16 organization of blind persons. The NFB has affiliates in all fifty states, Washington, DC, and 17 Puerto Rico. The NFB and its affiliates are widely recognized by the public, Congress, executive 18 agencies of state and federal governments, and the courts as a collective and representative voice 19 on behalf of blind Americans and their families. The organization promotes the general welfare of 20 the blind by assisting the blind in their efforts to integrate themselves into society on terms of 21 equality and by removing barriers that result in the denial of opportunity to blind persons in 22 virtually every sphere of life, including education, employment, family and community life, 23 transportation, and recreation.

24 The Arc of the United States (“The Arc”), founded in 1950, is the nation’s largest 25 community-based organization of and for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities 26 (“I/DD”). The Arc promotes and protects the human and civil rights of people with I/DD and 27 actively supports their full inclusion and participation in the community throughout their lifetimes.

28

1 The Arc has a vital interest in ensuring that all individuals with I/DD receive the appropriate 2 protections and supports to which they are entitled by law.

3 Founded in 1946 by paralyzed veterans, United Spinal Association is a national 4 membership organization of 56,000 persons with spinal cord injuries or disorders, the vast majority 5 of whom use wheelchairs. United Spinal Association has represented the interests of the 6 wheelchair-using community in litigation for decades. United Spinal Association was a key 7 negotiator with members of Congress regarding the provisions of the Americans with Disabilities 8 Act and the Fair Housing Amendments Act. Addressing the needs and rights of people with 9 disabilities, especially those with mobility impairments, has always been part of United Spinal 10 Association’s mission.
